

Local Radio Amateurs Hear Signals From Stations in Europe and Near North Pole

On Receiving Set Especially Designed by Greed M. Chorpennaling.

2-WAY COMMUNICATION

To Be Attempted Tomorrow Night by Mr. Chorpennaling and Captain Scott Reception Here Difficult Because of Short Wave Allocated to Amateurs.

As a result of the skill and persistence of local radio amateurs, Connellsville has been placed in wireless communication with the McMillan Arctic Expedition, now in winter quarters a few hundred miles from the North Pole, and with amateur stations in Great Britain, France, Denmark and Holland and other remote points. The culmination of the efforts to receive distance signals on the low meter lengths prescribed for amateurs came last evening when the calls as well as messages from stations in Europe and the call WNP from the farthest north station were received. Since December 31, the American Radio Relay League with the assistance of foreign radio societies has been conducting a series of tests between the amateurs of America and those of France, England and Holland, somewhat similar to the one held in 1922, except at this time the American and Canadian amateurs are to do only receiving, the foreign stations to transmit. Last year, the foreign amateurs did the receiving and hundreds of American amateurs were heard in Europe. This year it was up to the American amateurs to demonstrate their ability to build good receiving sets and hear the foreign stations.

Not to be outdone by amateurs along the Atlantic coast, local amateurs have continued their efforts to hear signals transmitted by foreign amateurs, notwithstanding the difficulty of reception at points so far inland. At least, two local amateurs have been successful. Greed M. Chorpennaling of 2817 and Captain Thomas W. Scott of 2817, both local receiving and transmitting stations, have been able to hear the foreign stations. This reception requires very sensitive receiving apparatus. It was found that the best receiving sets known to local amateurs have been incapable of picking up the foreign signals, because of the extremely short wavelengths used in the transmission. Not to be balked in their efforts Mr. Chorpennaling, in cooperation with Captain Scott, designed and built a receiving set having extremely sensitive stability and ease of operation. Tests of this set have been made this week with such satisfactory results that these local amateurs have demonstrated their ability to place Connellsville in wireless communication with points 3,000 and more miles distant. On Monday night the following foreign calls were distinctly heard: English 20D, 25Z, 25H; Danish, 9AK. On Tuesday night, French 81P, English 20D, 1BQ and 28Z, and Holland PA3, were heard. Last night English signal 20D and Holland PA3 were heard again.

While Mr. Chorpennaling was tuning in on foreign signals last night he was also able to hear WNP (Wireless North Pole), the call of the Schooner "Towadoff" of the McMillan Arctic Expedition now in winter quarters at Etah, Greenland, only a few hundred miles away from the North Pole. The distance covered by signals from France is much greater than that to WNP which is 3,200 miles north of Connellsville. The French amateurs were using much higher power than WNP but both signals came in here with about the same strength. The Trans-Atlantic tests will be concluded tonight and tomorrow night the American amateurs will endeavor to establish two-way communications with amateurs in Europe. This was accomplished by American 1MO and French 8AD during December and demonstrated that such transmission is possible on the short wave lengths allotted to amateurs. Captain Scott and Mr. Chorpennaling will participate in the two-way test.

John Craig Held Up by Bandit and Robbed of $157

While on his way through Harden Hollow, between Fairchance and Smithfield, this morning John H. Craig of Connellsville, driving a motor truck on a contract work for a Pittsburg concern, was held up by a masked bandit and relieved of $157, all the money he had, according to his report to County Detective A. W. Bell, Jr. According to the story told the officer, the bandit, about 20 to 22 years old, suddenly appeared on the truck, a stocking over his head with slits to permit sight, and, showing a revolver toward the driver, ordered him to throw up his hands. Craig complied. "Now give me your money," the bandit returned, "and hurry about it. This gun might go off." Craig turned over his cash. "Now are you sure this is all you have?" the bandit asked. "Yes, that's every cent," said Craig. "Won't you leave me enough to get my dinner?" The bandit counted out 66 cents. "Now beat it and don't look back," he ordered. Craig did not look back, but a short distance away he stopped at a telephone and called the county detective. Craig told the officer the bandit seemed very nervous and ill at ease.

Dr. Howard Griggs Pleases Audience With His Lecture

Dr. Edward Howard Griggs, one of the best-known and highly gifted lecturers on the platform today, entertained a good audience at the Connellsville High School last night with his address, "Light and Shadow of the Present Age." He appeared here under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He gave an interesting diagnosis of American life and the tendency of the present generation towards speed. His talk also swung into the after-effects of the war in various phases. He said the other nations had trusted the United States completely during the war because the troops were sent into action without intention of making any material gains for this country. Now that the war is ended, he declared the people of other lands cannot understand why the United States holds aloof. He expressed his belief that the country should be enrolled in the League of Nations or some such organization. The speaker was introduced by H. Dana Wright. Provisions for the lecture a number of piano selections were played by Carl T. Ansline. Members of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Episcopal Church acted as ushers.

200 GOOD ROADS ADVOCATES ATTEND RALLY AT DAWSON

Newly Formed Organization Boosts Improved Highway to Scottsdale.

IS VERY MUCH NEEDED

Impetus was given the Dawson to Scottsdale road project last night at a meeting of nearly 200 members of the Dawson, Tyrone & Scottsdale Good Roads Association, the first, big session of the organization, held at the auditorium in the Dawson Driving Park. Men and women, representing every section of the territory embraced by the association, were present. All enjoyed an order dinner at 7:30 o'clock following which the business meeting was held. The feast was prepared by the women of the community. Following the dinner a program of brief speeches was carried out. W. D. McGinnis, of Connellsville, a former Tyrone boy, was first on the list. He said he didn't know of any section of Fayette county which would be more appreciative or more benefited by better roads than that. "You need better roads," he said, "and you will get them if you make your association a live one that will stick and stand pat until your object is realized. Don't go to sleep and don't let the other fellow sleep." John R. Byrne of Everson, headed a delegation from the Scottsdale end. He said he knew the country commissioners were favorable towards the road and urged that the association be kept alive and going. Another well-known speaker was Representative J. B. Henderson of Connellsville. He said he would do all he could to further the project and added that he understood county officials as well as residents of the district affected were favorable. Samuel Hamilton of Layton, one of the big delegation of good roads boosters from that district, said Layton was solidly behind the association. He also urged that the proposition for a bridge over the Couchichewy river at that place be revived. "Go after it with hammer and tongs," was the message of Harry Brown, superintendent of the Davidson plant of the B. C. Frick Coke Company.

Another speaker was Abe Truxal, road supervisor of Upper Tyrone township. He brought the program of addresses to a close. He said that for the past nine years he had been interested in the very road the association was endeavoring to improve and expressed the opinion that finally steps had now been taken in the right direction. Senator Guy W. Brown, who was to have been a guest, could not attend.

The Dawson Methodist Quartet, composed of R. H. Toberson, K. H. Collins, David Scourfield and E. S. Bailey, with Miss Ruth Shallenberger as accompanist, entertained with a number of selections. The committee in charge of the dinner included Mrs. George H. Elcher, Mrs. William D. Wilson, Miss Betty Johnston, Mrs. W. R. Foraker, Mrs. Catherine Foraker, Mrs. W. F. Newcomer and Mrs. N. Jay Hutchinson.

Frank A. Tarr is president of the association; Frank Newcomer, first vice-president; N. Jay Hutchinson, second vice-president; George G. Cochran, secretary, and S. Shallenberger, secretary.

Attack Aimed At Mayfield To Secure Congressional Investigation of K. K. K?

SENATOR MAYFIELD AT HIS DESK. INSET, GEORGE PEDDY, DEFEATED CANDIDATE FOR MAYFIELD'S OFFICE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.—Congressional investigation of the Ku Klux Klan may follow the movement to oust United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Texas.

Many of Mayfield's enemies in Texas are more interested in eradicating the Klan there and elsewhere than in compelling the Lane Star senator to vacate his seat, it is said. His dismissal is sought, according to many Texans, merely as an incident in the arrangement and impeachment of the Klan before the bar of public opinion in America.

The anti-Klan group is being aided by George B. Peddy, whom Mayfield defeated for office.

Pittsburg Area Methodists Give More Than Four Millions Toward Centenary Movement

Local Conference Heads List With Contributions of $2,123,000.

ERIE DISTRICT IS NEXT

Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church residing in the Pittsburg area, which comprises Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, presided over by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, resident bishop of Pittsburg, gave more than $4,000,000 to the benevolent enterprises of the denomination during four years of the Centenary period, according to the Methodist Year Book, just out. The Pittsburg Conference heads the list for benevolent giving in the area, with $2,123,000 paid in on May 1, last, when the fourth year of the five-year Centenary period, was closed and the Year-Book gathered its figures. The Erie Conference was next with $1,225,000, and the West Virginia Conference gave in the same period $687,254.

This money was given above and beyond the expenses of the local churches and is for the general expansion movement of the denomination under the Centenary. Of this 38 per cent is for foreign missions, 11 per cent for education, and the remainder to 17 other benevolent organizations.

Bassett Resigns as Representative of Nina Wilcox Putnam

By United Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Ellsworth Bassett today formally resigned his business representative for Nina Wilcox Putnam, noted author and short story writer, and immediately left New York for his home at Madison, Conn. There he will seek a conference with Mrs. Bassett who has charged that her husband went away with Mrs. Putnam after they had proposed to her that she divorce Bassett in order that he might marry the writer.

Bassett declared his action today was taken out of deference to Miss Putnam, who has suffered through having employed him. While he declared he did not know what had caused his wife to make the charge, now denied both by himself and Miss Putnam, he felt his resignation should remove any doubt in her mind. Bassett arrived in New York this morning from Florida where he said he was looking after Miss Putnam's orange grove. It was there he first heard the charge made by his wife. On reaching here he went direct to the Hotel Netherlands, where Miss Putnam is still confined to her bed under the care of a trained nurse. He talked with Miss Putnam for a short time in the presence of the nurse, tendering his resignation and expressing regret that his association with the author had gotten her into such difficulties.

John Quinn Held For Embezzling Railroad Funds

Charged with embezzlement and larceny by bailer John Quinn, cash clerk at the Baltimore & Ohio freight depot here, is under $5,000 bail awaiting a hearing before Alderman Fred Munk. He is alleged to have obtained several thousand dollars from the freight receipts of the company and also from the employees' relief fund, collection of which was part of his work.

Quinn was arrested Sunday night. He last worked on December 31. When nothing was heard of him in the following days a check was taken at the freight office and the shortage was discovered. It will require considerable time yet to determine exactly what amount he has secured. The young man left the city during that time and was arrested Sunday when he happened to return. It is understood that he lost the money while gambling.

JOHN E. JONES IS MADE LIFE DEACON OF BAPTIST CHURCH

GOOD FINANCIAL REPORTS

Sum of $12,000 Raised for Current Expenses, Missions and Benevolences; Building Addition Held Over Until Other Obligations Met.

In recognition of his long service and his advanced age, John E. Jones, almost a life-long member, was elected a life deacon of the First Baptist Church at the annual congregational meeting Wednesday evening, attended by 150 persons. Mr. Jones is now past 80 years and has reached the period when attending the ordinary services of the church, not to mention the extra ones required of an official, is a severe tax on his physical strength, but Comrade Jones, who is a veteran of the Sixties, is among the most faithful in attendance.

Election of officers and submission of reports made up the chief business of the meeting, which was held following a covered-dish supper served at 6:30 o'clock. The covered-dish feature was an innovation and provided a great array of surprise salads for the dinner. Each married woman was asked to bring a dish of this character and none, so far as known, failed.

Financial reports showed that during the year $12,000 was raised, half of which amount was expended for missions and benevolences. The Ladies' Aid Society raised more than $1,000 and in addition purchased a grand piano. Other organizations contributed their share toward the budget.

The question of building an addition to the church on a lot recently purchased to the southeast was discussed but no action was taken. The church has not yet completed its pledge of $15,000 in the New World Movement and until this is paid on the building program will be held in abeyance.

There was one gloomy aspect to the meeting. Fourteen members of the church were reported to have passed to the Great Beyond during the year. This was the largest number in the history of the congregation, so far as was known.

Seven trustees were elected and among them Paul Withersell who has the distinction of being the youngest man ever elected to the board. This honor was bestowed upon Mr. Withersell for his interest and activity in church work. Others elected to the board were: J. C. Munson, Charles B. Franks, A. C. Suckel, F. W. Hicks, Glenn A. Caldwell and K. T. Hihen.

Besides Mr. Jones, the deacons elected were J. F. Metzgar, Charles L. Hatfield, W. E. Penn, A. R. Boyer and A. M. Montgomery.

J. C. Munson was elected church treasurer. Miss Emma Hite, financial secretary and P. Ray Metzgar, church clerk.

The following committees were appointed: Music committee, Grace Workman, Grace Robinson, Mrs. Wade H. Marietta, N. T. Hihen and H. D. Shearer.

Pittsburg Area Methodists Give More Than Four Millions

agencies of the denomination, the American Bible Society and the Federal Council of Churches, according to the plan laid down for the disposition of the entire fund.

In the foreign mission field the results made possible by the movement net 125,000 new members. 652 new missionaries, 5,500 new native workers enlisted, $10,000,000 added to the total valuation of mission property abroad, and $4,000,000 added to the giving of converts toward support of their own churches. The home mission achievements netted 2,740 new churches or parsonages built in this country and extensive promotion and broadening of Christian service in thousands of communities.

The Centenary movement is called by the Year-Book the "greatest enterprise for systematic benevolence giving in the history of Christianity." More than $67,000,000 had been received at the end of October last, according to the report made recently by Treasurer Morris W. Ebbes of Chicago. The portion given by Pennsylvania Methodists has been enlarged by several hundred thousand dollars since May 1, and an equal amount is expected on the pledges before May 1, 1924, when the Centenary period ends with the opening of the general conference of the denomination at Springfield, Mass.

Of the 21 areas of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States the Pittsburg area is rated second in the net increase in membership for 1923, with 4,898 members gained above all subtractions for deaths and removals. The total membership is now 235,544. All conferences in the area and the mission conference of Porto Rico, over which Bishop McConnell also presides, participated in the increase.

The West Virginia Conference was first with 2,480, the Pittsburg Conference, second with 1,433 new members. The Pittsburg Conference gave $2,123,963 to benevolence, the Erie Conference, $1,255,908, and the West Virginia Conference, $687,184.

The Pittsburg Conference, centering about the city of Pittsburg, is the largest in membership of any of the 150 conferences of the denomination throughout the world, with 113,932 members. It is also rated fourth in the list in the value of purchased property with $1,524,346. The West Virginia Conference is the largest in the church in the number of church buildings with 923, this being due, largely to the membership there being in widely separated groups.

Democrat Head of Commerce Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, was elected yesterday as chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Smith received 39 votes, or one more than the necessary majority. Commis. of Iowa, the regular Republican candidate, polled 29 votes, and Cozens, Republican, Michigan, the first choice of the insurgents, received six.

Four Republican insurgents and the two Farmer-Labor senators from Missouri, John and Shipstead, switched from Cozens to the Democrat and made possible his election. The insurgents were Brookheart, Iowa, Frazier and Ladd, North Dakota, and LaFollette, Wisconsin.

Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, voted for Cozens to the last. The deciding ballot was the 52nd since the deadlock developed early in the session.

Making Bituminous Anthracite Substitute

Coal operators in Somerset and Huntington county fields are meeting with considerable success in making bituminous coal available as a substitute for anthracite. They are in the process of burning and screening to produce the coal in suitable sizes, conforming to the sizes of anthracite. In Somerset county the E. E. Sheets Coal Company has purchased the coal property a short distance southwest of Somerset, for many years operated by Wesley J. Barron and later by his son, Ira Barron. Recently a deposit of canal coal was opened up on the property and it has since gained such strong favor in the markets of the east that the entire output has been contracted for by a Baltimore dealer. Local consumers of the fuel are using the smaller sizes which result from breaking and screening, being unable to secure a supply of the larger sizes by reason of the contract with the eastern dealer.

To Harness the Atom to Provide Heat and Power

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Harnessing of atomic energy may solve the world's future power problems, according to Prof. Herbert S. Philbrick of Northwestern University.

"Water-power cannot replace coal and oil," said Prof. Philbrick. "The future will develop power-producing devices not unknown among them atomic energy condensers and solar radiation."

Professor Philbrick declared that America's oil supply would be exhausted in nine years, if only oil was used to generate power.

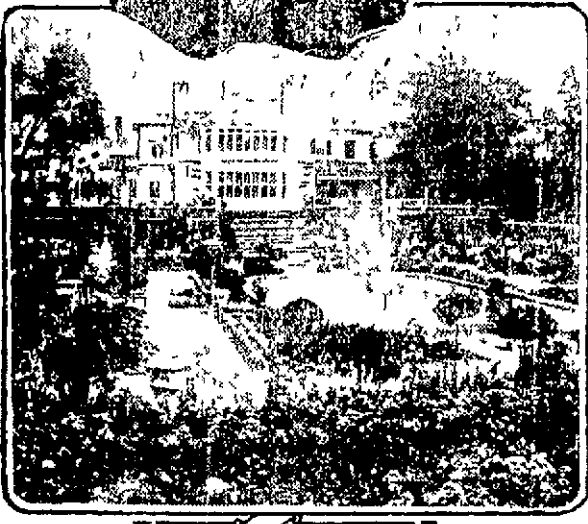

"America's coal supply," he said, "is estimated at 2,500 billion tons, the oil supply at seven billion barrels and the horsepower of the rivers and streams at 50,000,000."

"We have used five billion barrels of oil about six and a half tons of coal per person is used each year and the industries are using more than the potential horsepower of 50,000,000 horsepower," he said.

Professor Philbrick predicted that within the next 100 years an invention even more significant than the steam engine will be perfected.

Cumulative dumpings of cargo coal during the present season to December 30 stood at 29,827,719 tons in comparison with preceding seasons 1923 was six per cent ahead of 1918, when the previous record was established, and 72 per cent ahead of the average for the five-year period, 1918-1922.

CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM AT LAST DISCOVERED

NEW OIL FROM GERMANY STOPS PAIN INSTANTLY IN MANY CASES.

For years the cause of rheumatism has been laid to a dozen different reasons. Learned doctors have disagreed among themselves. Only lately has it been definitely determined that the real cause of many cases of rheumatism is the absorption of the body of poisons from some internal infection. These poisons are absorbed by the food and deposited in the joints and muscles, where they quickly set up inflammation and cause agonizing pain. And now the same German chemistry that created those well-known skin-killers, Aspirin for headaches and cocaine for painful dentistry, has come forward with a newly discovered oil for rheumatic pain—stops the pain in many cases. This oil is an anesthetic that it disappears a few weeks after it is rubbed on the skin. So something has been done for the sufferer from this disease. The American distributors have authorized local druggists to give this oil to rheumatic sufferers in this city with a positive written guarantee, signed by themselves, to return the full purchase price of the first bottle if you do not get immediate relief from pain. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, pain, no matter how long standing, you owe it to yourself to try this wonderful new remedy on this no-risk offer and see how quickly the pain disappears. It is called Rubler Oil and it is sold by a good druggist such as A. A. Arns, Connelville Drug Co., Laughery Drug Co., Fred H. Harmaning, C. O. Heston.—Advertisement.

Black Velvet for Chic Dance Frocks

Quaint and Attractive Garment With Baskets as Decoration.

A quaint evening frock has been designed especially for the young girl. It suggests simplicity and youthful charm. It is fashioned entirely of black velvet with a sleeveless, baton-necked bodice and a full, flaring, gathered skirt. On the latter two large baskets appear, woven from gold threads and lavishly sprinkled with golden spangles. The full bodice is tied with bows of blue and silver double-faced ribbon and the baskets are Dance Frocks of Black Velvet.

Adorned with satin flowers intermingled with more natural-looking blossoms similar to those used on hats. The effect of the bright, colorful flower baskets on their rich black background is unusually beautiful, and the gown would attract attention even though it were placed among vivid satin, flaming sequin or daring metal brocade models.

An attractive afternoon frock, also appropriate for the young girl, is of brown velvet and sat crepe. The latter medium forms a one-piece chemise frock, with rounded neck and shoulder straps widened just a trifle to suggest kimono sleeves. Two folds of velvet are added at the top, and each is fastened with a tiny velvet bow, so that a demure, Priscilla-collared effect is created. Similar, but wider folds of velvet also appear on the skirt, circling the lower part five times and relieving the simplicity of the crepe foundation. The girlish, which is placed rather low, is a garden of crocheted wool flowers, in shaded naturalistic tones, which appear to special advantage on the dark brown frock.

An afternoon or informal dinner gown for the matron is of rich golden brown velvet, heavily beaded and lace trimmed. The long blouse is of lustrous gold lace, veiling a foundation of gold cloth and panels of velvet lavishly beaded in copper trim at the front. The velvet skirt has a short, square base of lace at the center, and copper beads brighten its soft surface. A long side panel of velvet, with a gathered, fan-like heading at the top, adds to the finishing touch, and its elaborately beaded border just escapes sweeping the floor.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

To Prevent Teasing. One Mother Says: I never let my child gain the slightest thing by teasing. If what she asks for is right she gets it, otherwise not. If I happen to have made a mistake, I tell her so and change my answer. This increases her respect for my good sense and makes her understand that a "no" means "no." She is always amazed when she sees other children teasing.

Guardmen to Be Retained in Illinois Towns

By United Press. MARION, Ill., Jan. 16.—Sheriff George Galligan today defied the Ku Klux Klan and other organizations in Williamson county when he decided to keep state troops in Marion and Herpin until "Glen Young and all his prohibition raiders are driven out of Illinois."

After an all night conference, at which several civic and other organizations were represented, Galligan announced he would not meet their request to have the troops removed.

"The occupation of Marion by these guardmen will continue until Glen Young and all his prohibition raiders are driven out of Illinois," he declared. "I will not ask the governor to recall the troops until conditions change."

Adjutant General Black, in charge of the state company of militia which are encamped, said the troops will remain until Galligan is ready to release them.

Trouble Imminent Over Assassination Of Separatist Head

By United Press. BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Separatists clashed with the populace at Spyvor today after the assassination of Herr Heintz, president of the autonomous state of the Palatinat, a dispatch said today. Five persons were killed in a fight in the same restaurant where Heintz was shot the dispatch said.

SPEYER, Rhineish Prussia, Jan. 16.—Feeling between Germans loyal to the Reich and Separatists ran high here today as troops patrolled the streets to prevent possible outbreaks following the assassination of Herr Heintz. The assassins were a group of young men who shouted their loyalty to the Reich. A fusillade of shots rang out and Heintz and the other men fell. Then the lights were turned off and the room was filled with a thick cloud of smoke. The assassins fled.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

It is the greatest of all like that any two-hundred things can think alike in everything.—Eugene Kaylin.

SAUCES FOR VARIOUS DISHES

The appropriate sauce to serve with fish, flesh or fowl is very important to understand. If one has a list of one or two for use with the various foods they will add variety to the menu.

Shrimp Sauce (for Fish).—Measure one-third of a cupful of butter and melt half of it; add three tablespoons of flour and cook until smooth; add well-blended; then add one pint of boiling water and cook until slightly thickened; when smooth, add the rest of the butter in small pieces and stir until all is absorbed.

Add one cupful of shrimps, two teaspoonsful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Just before taking from the fire add a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet.

Fennel Sauce (for Beef or Veal).—Cook one cupful of finely-cut carrot until tender; drain and reserve one and one-quarter cupfuls of the carrot water. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter; add two tablespoonsful of flour. When well-blended add the carrot water, boiling hot; stir until slightly thickened. Add the cooked carrot, one tablespoonful of minced pickle, one-half tablespoonful of finely-minced parsley, one tablespoonful of grated horseradish, and salt and pepper to taste. Season with a dash of Worcester.

Oyster Sauce (for Chicken, Turkey or Fish).—Parboil a pint of oysters in their own liquor for a minute, or until their edges curl; drain, saving the liquor. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter; stir and cook, then add the oysters and the liquor, adding water enough to make a pint of both oysters and liquor. Season with tabasco, a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet; add two more tablespoonsful of butter in small pieces, until all is melted. Remove from the heat and add a beaten egg yolk. Serve hot.

Lebanese Butter.—Clean and wipe the coral and force through a fine sieve. Put into a mortar with one-quarter of a cupful of butter; pound until well-blended. Use in lobster soup or sauce to give color.

A plain and inexpensive comb may be changed into a strikingly handsome gift by making a ribbon ornament for it and attaching it with liquid glue. A hairbrush shape (Fig. 1) is covered with liquid glue and, when almost dry, is adorned with loops of narrow metallic ribbon (Fig. 2) and small ribbon bows (Fig. 3). A few more drops of glue spread over the comb holds the ornament firmly in place.

Failure to Recoup Holiday Decrease Only Significant Feature First Week, 1924

Total 196,810, or 8,810 Tons
Short of Week Preceding Christmas.

MERCHANTS DID BETTER

Than Furnace Plants Which Got Hardly Half Way Back; Week Was In Sharp Contrast With Beginning of 1923; Conditions Were Different.

The first week of the new year developed practically nothing that can be regarded as significant in the coke situation, unless it be that the decrease in production incident to the observance of Christmas was not fully made up. The gain last week was but 21,230 tons which, when contrasted with the loss of 39,890 tons during the holiday week, shows that the region is 8,810 tons behind the pre-Christmas mark.

A striking difference between the beginning of 1924 and the corresponding week of 1923 is thus revealed. A year ago the Christmas slump of 12,120 tons was not only made up but it was more than doubled in the succeeding week. This contrast brings into plain relief the fact that there is now absent from the market the factors which at this time last year were urging operators to augment production instead of cautioning them to keep it within prescribed limits.

It will be noticed, however, that there prevails among the merchant operators the conviction that the current year has within it possibilities of at least as good, if not better, trade than 1923, and that even now they have something substantial upon which to base their hopes. This has certain confirmation in the fact that the merchants did better than the furnace operators in regaining ground lost during the holiday week. Last week's gain by the former exceeded by 320 tons the decrease that took place in their output in the last week of the year. The furnace operators came but a trifle over the halfway mark on their return to the record of the week immediately preceding Christmas. The combined production of the two interests was 196,810 tons, or 11,280 tons greater than that of the week of December 29 but 8,810 tons below that of the week ended December 22.

There were some changes in the merchant oven list but the increase in those active was so inconsiderable as to have no noticeable effect on production. Against the 324 blow in there were 220 blows out making the net gain only four. There was no change in the furnace list.

There was not a universal return to a full six-day week as would likely have been the case had there been any appreciable expansion in demand for coke. Only a comparatively few furnace plants, and their all independent operations, made a full run. With the exception of two plants the H. C. Frick Coke Company ran only five days. The schedule of the merchant plants ranged from four to six days the bulk making five days.

Some producers of coke report the outlook as slightly brighter but for most part this branch of the trade finds little in the present situation that can be characterized as encouraging.

The estimated production of coke during the week ending Saturday, January 5, was 196,810 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 108,410, an increase of 11,070 tons; Lower Connellsville, 78,400, an increase of 10,210 tons, or a total increase of 21,280 tons, as compared with total decrease of 29,950 during the immediately preceding week.

By interests production was: Furnace, 112,200, a gain of 10,390 tons; merchant, 78,810, a gain of 10,390 tons, as contrasted with losses of 30,420 and 9,470 tons respectively during the week ended December 22.

There was a net increase of four in the number of ovens in active production, all at merchant plants, the changes including 80 out at Lafayette, 180 out at Clara, a total of 220; in, West Penn. 33; Adair, 20; Husted, 10; Labeille, 23; Puritan 1 and 2, 14; Seavight, 60; Tower Hill No. 1, 10; total, 224; net gain, four.

Production by the merchant and furnace interests and the total compared with the corresponding week in 1923 is shown herewith:

Week	Month	Furnace	Merchant	Total
Jan. 5	1925	112,200	78,810	196,810
Dec. 22	1924	101,000	69,890	170,890
Increase from 1924				25,920

Few Folks Have Gray Hair Now

Druggists Say Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. —Advertisement.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS.

No. 9.

Payment for services other than in money is subject to the income tax. The fair market value of the thing taken in payment is the amount to be included in income. For example, the value of merchandise or goods received by a clerk in part payment for his services must be reported as income. The value of board and lodging constitutes taxable income to the taxpayer receiving it as compensation for services. The amount to be included is the amount he would pay in cash for similar accommodations.

Promissory notes received in payment for services and not merely as security for such payment constitute income to the amount of their fair market value. Compensation paid an employee of a corporation in shares of stock is to be treated as if the corporation sold the stock for its market value and paid him in cash.

Where living quarters, food, clothing, etc., are furnished solely for the convenience of the employer—as, for example, in a logging or fishing camp—the value of such does not constitute taxable income to the employee. The rule applies to board and lodging furnished season.

The value of board and lodging furnished hospital employees is to be returned as income, unless the employee is subject to duty at any time during the 24 hours of a day, and therefore is required to accept quarters and meals at the hospital in addition to his regular compensation.

"$1,000 REWARD," with Big Boy Williams appearing in the role of "Sunny Jim" is on view today at this theatre and will also be shown tomorrow as the feature attraction. In one of the most thrilling fight scenes that has ever been photographed in the production of western photodramas, Big Boy Williams, and the two bad men were staging a desperate fight on the very edge of a high cliff. The fight progressed as it should, when suddenly one of the actors stumbled back from a blow by Big Boy, and losing balance started to topple over the edge of the cliff. Big Boy fairly dived and grabbed his legs as the man fell over and holding on kept him from falling to his death. It is only one of the countless thrilling scenes that happened in the making of "$1,000 Reward." Others appearing in the cast are Doris Davis, Fritz Alexander, Howard Foster and Frank Henkel. Florence Vidor will be seen soon in "Alice Adams."

The Soisson

"THE BEAUTIFUL AND DAMNED" the feature attraction today, Friday and Saturday at this theatre presents a great cast of screen players in a fascinating and colorful story of American society. Marie Prevost has the starring role as Gloria, the New York beauty, who is sophisticated and cynical without being bad, while giving the impression that she is. She exhibits the unusual talent gained from several years' work of all variety, from slapstick to her present high place in the Warner Brothers picture. Her present role gives her ample chance to be charming, beautiful and a flapper. There are moments in the picture when your ribs will be tickled and you will shake with laughter, just as there are other moments when the poignant tragedy will make your eyes dim. Some of these are: Gloria giving a party and stepping out a moment to accept a proposal; Gloria speeding in a new roadster till it breaks down, and then deciding to make her home in the nearest village; the exciting pursuit of her by a drunken bum across a railroad track; the sudden fall from riches to sordid poverty of a girl-wife and boy-husband accustomed to luxury; and the fight for a large inheritance; the disillusion of a betrayed wife; a wild happy-go-lucky party that ends dramatically. "Enemies of Women," will be shown soon.

The Orpheum

"THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE," on view today, Friday and Saturday at this theatre, presents Renee Adoree, Marie Williams, Lillian La Marr and Pat O'Malley in the leading roles. Many of the thrilling scenes of "The Eternal Struggle" were filmed in northwest Canada. Miss Adoree narrowly escaped death twice—once when caught in the path of the snow-white bear; and again when her canoe overturned in the treacherous St. Lawrence Rapids. Although Reginald Barker the producer, urged that she be "doubled," the plucky little star refused and went through her scenes without fear. Miss Adoree plays the part of Andrea, a French Canadian. She herself is French born and spent her childhood in France and England. She was a member of the first troupe of refugees which fled from northern France when the Germans entered in 1914. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Norma Talmadge and Conway Tearse will appear in "Ashes of Vengeance."

YEAR TOO YOUNG YET TO SHOW TREND IN THE STEEL MARKET

Mill Operating Schedules Better Than in Latter Part of December; Prices Well Sustained.

Special to The Weekly Courier NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows: The responsibility now rests on the iron and steel market to justify the very favorable predictions that were so prevalent in December. Thus far in the new year no definite trend has been established, but the year is too young to make a showing. The outstanding fact is that while in the closing months of the old year conditions were regarded as good because they had not grown worse as

FIGHT WINTER ILLS

Guard Against "Flu" or Pneumonia

"I am not so young as I feel as young as I did at 1. I take a cupful of Bulgarian Tea once or twice a week. It keeps me healthy and strong and makes me feel young again," said H. H. Von Schlick, manufacturer of Bulgarian Herb Tea.

To break up a bad cold you must take a cupful hot at bedtime. Bad colds often turn into influenza or pneumonia and thousands die every year. This Bulgarian Tea will do for you what it has done and is doing today for millions of people. It will keep your system in perfect physical condition. Get a box from your druggist today.

much as had been expected, the expectations now are the other way and unless the market improves there will be disappointment.

Steel mill operating schedules have been distinctly better, since the first of the year, than in the latter part of December, but much of this improvement may be due to buyers requiring that deliveries be held back until after inventory.

Finished steel prices continue to be well sustained, but buyers do not coincide with the mill attitude that the matter of prices is now settled for an indefinite period.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Ready and always prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/4 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint must contain two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and give you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/4 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

VIOLA GWYN

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

"We will manage somehow," said Mrs. Gwyn. "One of the men will give you a coat—or you may have my cape to wear, Moll."

Moll looked at her in surprise. Again she said the unexpected thing. "Why, everybody says you are a mighty onfeelin' woman, Mrs. Gwyn. I can't believe you'd let me take your cape."

"You will see, my girl. Come! Show me where to find water and a comb and—"

"Wait a minute," said Moll abruptly. "Somehow I ain't as short as I was. You're showin' they won't hang me? 'Cause I'd hate to be hang—I'd hate to die that-away, mister."

"They won't hang you, Moll—take my word for it."

"Well, then," said she, bringing forward the hand she had been holding behind her back all the time, "here's the knife I done it with. It's his'n. He was braggin' last night about how many guilets he had slit with it—I mean men's guilets. I was just sort o' hangin' onto it in case I—but I don't believe I ever could do that. Faint? 'Cause I'm scared to die but they say a person that takes his own life is alone to go to—'cause he don't get no chance for to repent. Take it, mister."

"I'm Sorry, Ma'am, If I Talked Too Much."

She handed the big death-knife to the sheriff. Then she followed Rachel Carter out of the hut, apparently unconscious of the curious eyes that followed her. She passed close by the corpse, she looked down at the ghastly face and twisted body without the slightest trace of emotion—neither dread nor repugnance nor interest beyond a curious, unworldly stare of the eyes as if one searching for some sign of trickery on the part of a wily adversary. On the way out she stopped to pick up a crumpled, almost toothless and and some shavings.

"I guess we better go down to the river," she said as they stepped out into the open. "That's very far, Mrs. Gwyn, an' the water's cleaner. Didn't no danger of no 'tain' to get away, an' we can see a feller's eyes as her eyes sweep the little clearing, revealing armed men in all directions. Her gaze rested for a moment on Martin Hawk, who was staring at her from his post on a steep bank."

"There's my pup over yonder," she said, with a nod. "He's the one that got to be strung up for all this. He didn't do it, but he's to blame, just the same. They ain't got him 'rested fer old' it have they? 'Cause he didn't. He'll tell you he's as innocent as a unborn child—he ain't does—'an' he is as far as the killin' goes. But at he's done what was right hit never would 'a' happened. There's what I got against him."

Rachel Carter was looking at the strange creature with an interest not far removed from pity. Despite the glib, hanging expression she was a rather handsome girl; wild, uncultured, almost untamed she was, and yet without a certain diffidence that bespoke better qualities than appeared on the surface. She was tall and strongly built, with the long, swinging stride of the unhampered woods-woman. Her young shoulders and back were bent with the toll and drudgery of the life she led. Her eyes, in which lurked a never-absent gleam of pain, were dark, smoldering, fiery red, and so red as if one could not think of them as ever being closed in sleep.

"The girl led the way down a narrow path to a little sand-bar. 'I go in swimmin' here every day, 'cause when it's froze over,' she volunteered dully. 'Hain't you skeert at the sight of blood, ma'am? Some people air. We was diggin' on whittler we'd dig a grave fer him or less pull out yonder into the current an' deep him over. Pap said we had to get rid of him 'fore anybody come around. 'Nen the dogs begin to bark an' be thought maby it was Mr. Lapelle, so he—sur, you mustn't get Mr. Lapelle mixed up in this. He—"

"I know all about Mr. Lapelle, Moll," interrupted the older woman. "The girl gave her a sharp, almost hostile look. 'Then you hain't goin' to let him have your girl, air you?' Mrs. Gwyn shook her head. 'No, Moll—I ain't,' she said.

"You set here on this log," ordered the girl as they came down to the water's edge. "Till do my own washin'. I'm kind o' 'shamed to have anyone see me as naked as this. There ain't much left of my dress, is there? We fit for I don't know how long, like a couple o' dogs. You can see the black an' blue places on my arms out here in the daylight, an' I guess his finger marks must be on my neck, where he was chokin' me. I was tryin' to wrastle 'round till I could get nigh to the trees, where his knife was stickin'. My eyes was poppin' right out o' my head when I—"

"For heaven's sake, girl!" cried Rachel Carter. "Don't! Don't tell me any more! I can't bear to hear you talk about it."

Moll stared at her for a moment as if bewildered, and then suddenly turned away, her chin quivering with mortification. She had been reprieved!

For several minutes Rachel stood in silence, watching her as she washed the blood from her naked breast and shoulders. Presently the girl turned toward her, as if for inspection.

"I'm sorry, ma'am, if I talked too much," she mumbled awkwardly. "I'd ought to have known better. Is—Is it all right?"

"I think so," said Rachel, pulling herself together with an effort. Let her say a person that takes his own life is alone to go to—'cause he don't get no chance for to repent. Take it, mister."

"On an' on over since I kin remember," replied the girl. "Pap knowed him down South. He hain't seed much of him fer quite a spell. Duns—duns, I guess maby. He come here last week one day."

The eyes of the two women met. Moll broke the short silence that ensued. She glanced over her shoulder. The nearest man was well out of earshot. Still she lowered her voice.

"He claims he use to know you a long time ago," she said.

"Yes?"

"Maby you'd recollect him if I told you his right name, Simon Braley," said Rachel Carter calmly.

Moll's eyes narrowed. "Then what he say was true?"

"I don't know what he said to you, Moll."

"He say you run off with some other woman's husband," replied Moll bluntly.

"Did he tell this to anyone except you and your father?"

"He didn't tell no one but me, for I know. He didn't tell pap."

"How did he tell you?"

"Last night," said Moll, suddenly dropping her eyes. "He was drinkin', an' I thought maby he was lein'."

"You are sure he did not tell your father?"

"I'm purty shore he didn't."

"Why did he tell you?"

"The girl raised her eyes. There was a deeper look of pain in them now. 'I'd rather not tell,' she muttered.

"You need not be afraid."

"Well, he was arguin' with me. He said there wasn't any good women in the world. 'Why,' sez he, 'I seen a woman this very day that everybody thinks is as good as the angels up in heaven, but when I tell you what I know about her you'll—'

"You need not go on," interrupted Rachel Carter, drawing her brows together. "Would you believe me if I told you the man lied, Moll Hawk?"

"Yes, ma'am—I would," said the girl promptly. "For as that goes, I told him he lied."

Rachel started to say something, then closed her lips tightly and fell to staring out over the river. The girl eyed her for a moment and then went on:

"You needn't be skeert of no ever tellin' anybody what he said to me. He wouldn't be right to spread a lie like that, Mrs. Gwyn. You—"

"I think they are waiting for us."

Moll interrupted Rachel, suddenly holding out her hand to the girl. "Thank you. Come, give me your hand. We will go back to them, hand in hand, my girl."

Moll stared at her in sheer astonishment.

"You—you don't want to hold my hand in yours, do you?" she murmured slowly, incredulously.

"No. You will find me a good friend—and you will need good friends, Moll."

Dumbly the girl held out her hand. It was clasped firmly by Rachel Carter. They were half-way up the bank when Moll held back and tried to withdraw her hand.

"I—I can't let you—why, ma'am, that's the hand—I held the knife in," she cried, agitatedly.

Rachel gripped the hand more firmly. "I know it is, Moll," she said calmly.

CHAPTER XVIII

The prisoners.

The prisoners carried wounded lay toward the river. Moll Hawk was between the sheriff and Cyrus Allen on the springboard that served as a seat atop the left sideboards of the wagon. The crude wooden wheels rumbled and creaked and jarred along the deep rutted road, jouncing the occupants of the vehicle from side to side with unceasing playfulness. Back in the bed of the wagon, under a gayly colored Indian blanket, lay the outstretched body of Jasper Suggs, seemingly alive and responsive to the jolts and twists and turns of the road. The rear end gate had been removed and three men sat with their heads dangling outside, their backs to the sinister, unnoted traveler who shared accommodations with them. The central figure was Martin Hawk, grim, austere, silent, his feet and hands secured with leather thongs. Trotting along under his heels, so to speak, were his three dogs—their tongues hanging out, their tails drooping, their eyes turning neither to right nor left. They were his only friends.

Some distance behind rode three horsemen, leading a many ridged steed. On ahead was another group of riders. Rachel Carter rode alongside the wagon.

Moll had firmly refused to wear the older woman's cape. She had on a coat belonging to one of the men and wore a flimsy, deep-hued bonnet that once had been azure blue. Her shoulders sagged wearily, her back was bent, her arms lay limply upon her knees. She was staring blankly before her over the horses' ears, at the road ahead. The reaction had come. She had told the story of the night, haltingly but with a graphic integrity that left nothing to be desired.

Martin Hawk had spent a black and unhappy hour. He was obliged to listen to his daughter's story and, much to his discontent, was not permitted to contradict her in any particular. Two or three mournful attempts to reproach her for lying about her own—and, he always added, her only—father, met with increasingly violent objections to "shut up," the last one being so emphatic that he gave vent to a sharp howl of pain and began feeling with his tongue to see if all his teeth were there.

It was after eight o'clock when the wagon and its escort entered the outskirts of the town.

Martin Hawk lodged in the recently completed brick jail adjoining the courthouse. He complained bitterly of the injustice that permitted his daughter, a confessed murderer, to enjoy the hospitality of the sheriff's home, whilst he, accused of nothing more heinous than sheep-stealing, was swung into jail and subjected to the further indignity of being audibly described as a fit subject for the whipping post, an institution that still prevailed despite a general movement to abolish it throughout the state.

It galled him to hear the fuss that was being made over Moll. Everybody seemed to be taking her part. Why, that Gwyn woman not only went so far as to say she would be responsible for Moll's appearance in court, but actually arranged to buy her a lot of new clothes. And the sheriff patting her on the shoulder and loudly declaring that the only thing any judge or jury could possibly find her guilty of was criminal negligence in only half-doing the job. This was supplemented by a look that left no doubt in Martin's mind as to just what he considered to be the neglected part of the job.

He bethought himself of the one powerful friend he had in town—Barry Lapelle. So he sent this message by word of mouth to the suspected dandy:

"I'm in jail. I want you to come and see me right off. I mean business."

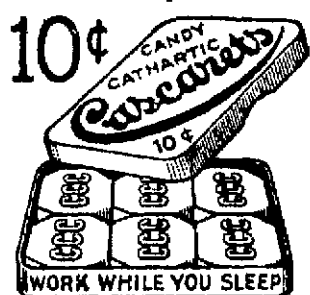

Needless to say, this message, conveying a far from subtle threat, was a long time in reaching Mr. Lapelle, who had gone into temporary retirement at Jack Troutman's shanty, having arrived at that unsavory retreat by a roundabout, circuitous route which allowed him to spend some time on the bank of a sequestered brook.

Meanwhile Rachel Carter approached her own home, aloof and weary. As she turned the head she was surprised and not a little disturbed by the sight of Kenneth Gwynne standing at her front gate. He hurried up the road to meet her.

Another W. P. I. A. League Game Scheduled for High School Friday; Indiana

Team Farthest Away in Section Three Loop, Will Be Guests in the City.

LATROBE NEXT TUESDAY

Winning its first game in the W. P. I. A. League, the Conneltsville High School got away to a wonderful start and gained a world of confidence in its floor ability. The next clash is Friday evening at home with Indiana High. On Tuesday of next week the locals go to Latrobe. There is no Saturday game this week.

The colors are working in earnest now. Practice sessions are filled with spirit and zest and a team that appeared at the start of the season to be going off on the wrong foot may now be depended upon to win a majority of its games.

Fans Want to See Lion Tamers and Unity Frat Play

The manager of the Lion Tamers announced he has been deluged with requests to play a series of games with the Unity Fraternity floor quartet, which has established a good reputation for itself in recent years. However, being holder of a "champion" team, he very properly and modestly declines to issue any challenge but makes it known he is in a receptive mood and will prove a pleasant host should the Fraternity manager wish to talk over terms.

The Fraternity management comes forth with the statement that there will be a sure-enough series between the two teams this year. The two clubs have never met before. Just when the series will be played is another question. It is said in the Fraternity is only getting under way and it will require a little time to get into shape to "take the Lion Tamers." Floor fans undoubtedly have a treat in store for them.

PENN STATE SMASHES PRECEDENT

Beall G. Gray, star center, a sophomore, has been elected to lead the 1924 Penn State eleven. In choosing Gray captain, the players broke a precedent of many years standing, for he is only a sophomore, and has played on the varsity but one season. He made the unusual record of intercepting a forward pass in every game played during the season. His older brother was captain of the 1910 Penn State eleven.

KNOTTY PROBLEMS OF BASKETBALL

Quon.—Two players of the same team are struggling for the ball and the referee, thinking they are opponents, blows his whistle. How is the ball put in play? Ans.—It is thrown up between one of the players and his opponent.

Quon.—The ball strikes the edge of the backboard, then goes out of bounds at the side of the court. What is the decision? Ans.—The ball goes to an opponent of the player who last touched, or was touched by, the ball before it struck the edge of the backboard. This opponent puts the ball in play from out of bounds at the nearest point to the edge struck by the ball.

Quon.—Can a player put the ball in play from out of bounds by throwing it against the backboard? Ans.—Yes. Rule 14, Section 1 states that "A player shall not throw for basket when the ball is dead," and a goal made in this way would not count, the ball going up at center after such a goal. But if a goal is not made, the ball is in play.

Quon.—While making a free throw for goal, the thrower does not make an honest attempt to make the ball, but causes it to rebound from the backboard to a teammate, who makes a basket. The referee counts the basket, but penalizes the thrower. Is he right? Ans.—No. The referee should have ruled "No goal" and awarded the ball to an opponent out of bounds, on the side. It should be added that, if the ball strikes the backboard on a free throw, the referee must be a keen reader of a player's intentions to rule it "not an honest attempt."

Quon.—A player makes a wild throw for goal, the ball hits a piece of apparatus over the playing court, and is deflected into the basket. Does the goal count? Ans.—Yes. If the ceiling and apparatus are low, a ground rule should be made before each game to the effect that the ball is dead when it strikes either of these over the court, and that the ball shall be thrown up at center. In the absence of a ground rule the ball continues in play.
